

Nature's Jar Restoration Plan

Since purchasing the property, Nature's Jar has hauled many truckloads of trash to the dump in order to restore the property to its natural setting. One part of that has been cleaning up the legacy "guerilla grows" that have been scattered across the two parcels. These areas include water lines, drip irrigation equipment, trash from nutrient packaging, food waste, equipment for supporting plants, water reservoirs, pots with soils and other random trash.

Nature's Jar has taken the time to break down these grow areas and haul the trash off the premises to Eel River Disposal in Fortuna. In total, the materials removed equated to two trailer loads of trash. Measures taken to restore the areas back to pre-cannabis activities include; removal of all trash, irrigation equipment and any materials foreign to the natural habitat.
