

Dear Humboldt County Planning and Building Department:

I am writing out of deep concern over the proposed Nordic Aquafarms facility, which plans to operate a massive 766,530 square-foot factory fish farm on the Samoa Peninsula. I was shocked to see the County's Mitigated Negative Declaration, finding that there would be no significant adverse environmental effect from this facility, which could produce up to 60 million pounds of fish per year and discharge six million gallons of wastewater into our coastal waters daily. I respectfully request that the County undertake a more rigorous and thorough review of this facility and the myriad of environmental and socio-economic impacts it will have. Please do all you can to prevent a land-based factory fish farm from harming Humboldt Bay's precious coastline.

The mitigated negative declaration does not meet the strict requirements imposed by the California Environmental Quality Act, which was passed to ensure that the long-term protection of the environment shall be the guiding criterion in public decisions. Not only will the massive amount of wastewater produced daily by this facility impact nearby water quality, existing wildlife habitats, and infrastructure, but I also have significant concern over the carbon footprint that the operation will create.

California's coastline is a treasure. It is where we take our children to play and teach them about the wonders of nature. It is where businesses and families continue California's rich history of nourishing ourselves with wild, native seafood. California's bustling tourism industry relies heavily on maintaining a clean, healthy coastal ecosystem. Our state is also home to many iconic marine animals, a number of which are endangered species. Fish feed practices at these operations heavily rely on wild fish and land-based crops like soy, which inherently and unavoidably contain GMOs. Moreover, factory farms like this operation are corporate-driven, which only means higher profits at the expense of sustainable operations and quality products. Factory fish farms could lead to the demise of our wild fishing communities and related industries by placing downward pressure on fishing prices and creating competition for limited marine space. We cannot risk all of this just to benefit corporations – especially a foreign-owned corporation - that will pollute our waters with harmful chemicals, deadly parasites, and lethal viruses that could infect our wild fish stocks.

We know that Humboldt County understands the value of California's coastline, which belongs to the people of California. We care deeply about the well-being of our ocean ecosystem, and we want our precious resources protected so our children and their children can enjoy them. Please do not take steps toward allowing industrial fish farms in our State. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
